

Talking with Families When Death Becomes a Likely Outcome

Dates	Thursday 11 th July 2024, Wednesday 18 th September 2024, Wednesday 11 th December 2024
Session time	9am – 5pm
Venue	Online
Price	£200 (12 spaces per course)
Core target audience	This course is for medics and nurses of all grades.
Faculty	Emma Broughton - Head of Education for Simulation   Great Ormond Street Hospital Tara Kerr Elliot - Children's Palliative Care Nurse Specialist/ Educator   NIHR Clinical Doctoral Nursing Fellow   GOSH Paediatric Bioethics Service   Great Ormond Street Hospital

Talking to families when the death of their child becomes a likely outcome is challenging. This simulation day is designed to help develop techniques for introducing the concepts of death and dying, advanced care planning and parallel planning. The day will be run in small groups, using actors and facilitated debriefs from expert faculty.

Course Outline:

- Complete a taught session with Q & A
- Introduction to Simulation and Simulation Safety
- Take part in scenarios with actors

Learning Objectives and Aims:

- Establish methods to broach difficult conversations surrounding death
- Practise how to approach families and staff members when dealing with sick children
- Understand and raise your situational awareness of how to handle these situations

Book your place:

Click here to book Thursday 11th July 2024

Click here to book Wednesday 18th September 2024

Click here to book Wednesday 11th December 2024

For further information on this course, please email simulation@gosh.nhs.uk