

Safeguarding concerns: How do I start the conversation?

Further dates released: April 24th & June 12th , 11th October 2024 10am-4pm (face-to-face@GOSH)

Do you ever feel worried about the safety of a family or child but unsure about how to proceed?
As the picture is often incomplete, we can feel hesitant about what to look out for and what to convey to families and colleagues. Through case-based discussion, simulation, and a multidisciplinary approach, this course will empower you to take responsibility for getting safeguarding conversations started.

We will:

- Examine why, from a psychological viewpoint, the temptation to “turn a blind eye” to risk can be significant
- Discuss complex case examples and reflect on previous experiences of safeguarding concerns
- Clarify key information around safeguarding
- Practice starting conversations about safeguarding with trained actors

Lead Faculty

Charlotte Barran, Social Worker, Lead Educator in Safeguarding
Gareth Drake, Clinical Psychologist, Simulation Team

Is this course for me?

This course is aimed at all patient-facing staff.

How to book:

Click here to book April 24th

Click here to book June 12th

Click here to book 11th October